

THE ORDER OF THE DEEP ROOTS

REMOVE VANITY AND UNNECESSARY SELF-IMPORTANCE
NOBILITY, SELF-SACRIFICE, DENIAL OF EGO

Introduction “THE NON-SELF”

In Theravada Buddhism, suññatā often refers to the non-self: “all things are empty of intrinsic existence and nature”. “Śūnyatā” is “devoidness,” “emptiness,” “hollow, hollowness,” “voidness.” As the “emancipation of the mind by emptiness” being consequent upon the realization that “this world is empty of self or anything pertaining to self”. Nothingness is an important door to liberation, it also equates not-self with the emptiness liberation. Nothingness is a way of perception, a way of looking at experience. It adds nothing and takes nothing away from physical and mental events. Events in the mind and senses without thinking if there is something behind them. This mode is called emptiness because it lacks the assumptions we usually add to experience to make sense of it: the stories and visions of the earth that we decode to explain who we are and the world we live in. Although these stories and visions have their uses, the Buddha has discovered that some of the more abstract questions they raise - about our true identity and the reality of the outside world - divert attention from a direct experience of how things affect each other in the present. So they get in the way when we try to understand and solve the problem of suffering.

The Cycles

The earth is a circle, the sun is a circle, time is a circle, the day is a cycle, the seasons change in a cyclical manner, nature works with cycles, animals live in cycles as well following the change of the seasons, migrating, breeding...Humans are the only species in nature that are running in a straight line and not operating in cycles (or circles). This straight line is terrifying because it doesn't have a beginning and doesn't end anywhere. This straight line reveals to us that we don't know where we have come from and that we don't know where we are going to. Obviously, this is all due to the fact that humans are designed to hurdle headlong towards self destruction. When all humans are gone, the animals (which are designed to stay) and the planet will finally live in harmony again and everything will be beautiful just as it was before humans appeared. Animals know where they come from, the circle is certainty, because they belong to the earth, to the seasons, to time...They know the truth and they have this authentic truth in their beautiful souls ...If they disappear from the planet, the planet will die. This is one of the main differences between humans and animals: they are necessary for mother nature (therefore they belong to nature which in our religion is GOD) and humans are detrimental to nature. Animals work with nature to keep the cycles moving, whereas humans destroy nature just like a virus! Animals follow their instinct, therefore they are pure. Humans only follow their own mere, small, pathetic self-interests and do not belong to nature, humans are not necessary on this planet so they have to go as soon as possible. Animals are needed, they must stay, and be left alone in peace.

Our Path

The Order Of The Deep Roots is a path... It's a path that you choose to follow when you respect your body and other sentient living beings. When you decide to keep your body pure like a temple and not nasty as a mass grave for rotting animal parts and bodies then you simply follow the way of purity. It's about respect for life, nature, animals and ourselves. If you follow this you have the right and power to remain as a guardian of the earth, to remain as a steward. Humans never learned to live in peace with animals and plants. Humans do not respect nature. Humans evolved into a kind of virus and that's what humans are now. Whether it be the air we breathe, the water we drink, or the food we eat, what's clear is that we depend on the Earth to live. But the natural world's ability to provide the services we need to survive are beginning to break down. Humans are responsible for this breakdown. A virus is hardwired to behave in this way. It knows no different. It can't recognize that its behaviour leads to the demise of an environment that supports its own life. A virus is destructive. If the behaviour of the virus was to change, it would no longer be a virus. We aren't a virus — we just behave like one. Unlike a killer virus, we aren't genetically disposed to be destructive. So why do we behave in such a destructive way? Our behaviour is the result of how we're programmed. As individuals, our behaviour is influenced by the reality around us. This reality is absorbed when we're children. We learn the rules of the society we live in and come to understand how to survive and thrive in that society. The rules of the game influence every individual to behave in a similar way. To change our path requires an awakening of the people. People must recognize that this isn't the reality, but a reality. Our reality can and must change if we have any hope of avoiding our own destruction. Unlike the virus, we have the ability to recognize that our behaviour is leading to our own demise. The human consciousness must awaken to consider the relationship between our actions and the natural world. If we continue to behave in a destructive way, the natural world will break down, and with it civilization. One cannot function without the other.

The Human Virus

Humans treat the Earth with complete disregard. We poison waterways — even though water is the blood of life. Forests are chopped down and burnt — even though trees clean the air we breathe. Greenhouse gases are released into the atmosphere — even though we know this is heating up the world. Oh, and our behaviour is creating the sixth mass extinction event. Life is dying due to human behaviour. You would think we're trying our very best to destroy the conditions we depend on to survive. If it were the intention we're doing a very good job of it. And yet, this is the last thing we want. If we destroy the conditions that provide us life, we destroy ourselves. It's that simple. We know what we're doing. The alarm bells are ringing. But we continue to behave in a way that is destroying the stable conditions that are conducive to life as we know it. From a different perspective, our behaviour is comparable to a killer virus. Why we behave like a virus. Killer viruses are merciless in their destruction. They flourish off the souls of the living. They are genetically programmed to behave this way. A virus programming results in destruction. Either the host is able to fight the infection, and destroy the virus, or the virus overwhelms the host, and kills it. But, by killing the host, the virus also kills itself. The death of the host results in the destruction of an environment where the virus can thrive. The last thing a virus wants to do is kill its host. Its success ultimately brings its own downfall.

Who we are

Salvation is only possible through the complete dehumanization in order to recreate the world with different individuals and laws which work in harmony with animals and nature. We only hope that our family members will survive protected by our cult. This way we can save the human race, and we can create a new “human being” which is different from the people that live on the planet now. The human race will be brutally exterminated. The Anthropocentric lie has to come to an end and humans have to see the terrifying and piercing effigy of horror that they have inflicted on animals for ages. Humanity is ill, infected with the worst disease that is called Speciesism. The message about God intended as nature (animals and the perfection of their creation) is our faith, but the power for The Order Of The Deep Roots is a high level of inspiration, self control, and correction of human errors through the inspiration of the animal perfection. We are the hand of God, we're here to bring the animals message to the wrong doers in humanity.

We are not an organization, we are a cult and we act with similar manners as Massoneria. Every member has to protect the other members. The voices asked us to change things, giving us the chance of salvation by becoming the hand of God and finding the real way of purity. We want to be the family that you have always looked for. Our cult is a family.

Our Rules & Magic Rituals • UNDEROATH

The Deep Root Order is a secret cult. You can become a member once you have received this file and understood that all the collective ideas have a match with the own ideas of the one who is reading. The cult is like a family. Once you are in, you don't leave. Each member of the cult must help the other members with practical actions and/or simply support the problems of others. The sect is rooted in magic, black, white and red and members must participate in rituals. Our rituals take from all the existing disciplines of ritual magic, but also from masters such as Aleister Crowley, Anton Lavey, Ordo Templi Orientis and have the purpose to free us, to let us go in a different and wonderful world. Techniques and Secrets that are and remain absolutely incommunicable if not through a direct Initiation and Experience within the Order itself. We want to open a gap between our own Holy Mysteries and the Consciences of those whose intellectual and emotional sensibility is already leaning or is beginning to lean towards the flashing lights of the NEW EON, that is towards the cathartic transmutation and Angelic and Demonic Reintegration of both Man and Woman, that the Star Myth of the BEAST prefigures in the World and that our Ancient and Venerable Order has taken on the task of announcing. Rituals take place in Europe so members must be prepared to travel. Members can talk about the sect at their discretion. Members may divulge this file to people who might be good members themselves. Those who want to become members of our sect do so because they feel the need to do so. Because they feel the need to belong to something, to have a family, to believe in something great. The cultural, artistic, philosophical, scientific interests of the members are however addressed to the multiple themes of the Thelemic Renaissance proposed and that the Influx of the “CURRENT 93” is arousing in the world. The goal of our sect is not to “produce” more members, but to make its members better.
